

COMBOS® 3rd Annual “America’s Manliest Cities” Study
Board of Manliness Bio Sheet

Overview

It’s hard to argue that your city’s got moxie when Sergeant Slaughter, Lou Ferrigno and arguably the greatest competitive beard grower on the planet think your city lacks manliness. For the first time, COMBOS® incorporated personal rankings of 10 individuals into the annual “America’s Manliest Cities” study. This Board of Manliness ranked the 50 cities in the study and research expert Bert Sperling incorporated their composite ranking of the cities into the final results.

In addition to the public figures listed below, the Board of Manliness includes four everyday Americans – a retired Navy Seal, a school teacher, a police officer and a mother of four boys.

BOARD OF MANLINESS
Rollie Fingers 	If there was a Mustache Hall of Fame, a massive bronze sculpture of Fingers’ handle bar mustache would stand at its entrance. Instead, Fingers enjoys being enshrined in the Baseball Hall of Fame as one of the greatest relief pitchers of all time.
Sergeant Slaughter 	Retired professional wrestler and real life action figure, Sergeant Slaughter also has a manly mustache.
Lou Ferrigno 	American actor and bicep enthusiast. Taking issue with how Ferrigno ranked the cities is not advised as you might not like him when he’s angry.
Jack Passion 	We don’t know if Jack Passion’s beard has a trophy room, but if it does, it’s probably the size of your parent’s garage. Mr. Passion is a repeat champion at the World Beard and Mustache Championship, stars in IFC’s Whisker Wars and scribed the seminal tome, “The Facial Hair Handbook.”
Judy Gold 	Judy Gold is one of the funniest people on the planet and arguably the most feared comedian at Friars Club Roasts. Gold offers a female perspective on what makes a city manly based on countless hours in comedy clubs and dive bars across America.
Mike Sullivan 	Mike Sullivan is a professional lumberjack and has 44 world lumberjacking titles. If that’s not impressive enough, he’s also a world-class archer.
